3. (a) Read the Oral Narrative below and answer the questions that follow.

One day, elephant came across Squirrel on the path to the river. The proud and lordly Elephant swept Squirrel off the path with his trunk, rumbling, “out of my way, you of no importance and tiny size.” Squirrel was most offended, as he had every right to be. Stamping his little feet in a rage, he decided that he was going to try and teach Elephant some manners.

“Ho!” shouted Squirrel indignantly, “you may be very tall, and you may be very proud and I bet you think you’re the greatest animal on earth, but you are much mistaken!”

Elephant looked around in surprise. “I am not mistaken. Squirrel,” he rumbled. “I am the greatest, and everyone knows it.”

Let me tell you something Elephant,” said Squirrel, angrily and flicking his tail, “I may be small, but I can eat ten times as much as you! I challenge you to an eating contest and I bet you that I, Squirrel can eat more palm nuts and for a longer time than you, high and mighty Elephant!”

Elephant roared with laughter. He was so amused, in fact that he accepted the creature’s challenge. Beside he was rather fond of palm nuts.

So both animals collected a huge pile of palm nuts and agreed to start the contest the very next morning at the first light. Elephant could hardly wait. He even skipped his evening meal of acacia pods so as to be truly empty for the morning. He intended to put Squirrel firmly in his place, once and for all.

The next day dawned fine and sunny, as it often does in Africa, and the two contestants started to eat. Elephant munched steadily through his pile, with fine appetite. Squirrel nibbling away furiously, was soon full to bursting. Quietly, he slipped away, sending a cousin who was hiding nearby to take his place. Elephant was so absorbed in his greedy task that he didn’t even notice. Brothers, sisters, cousins, uncles aunts, one hungry Squirrel after another took a turn at the pile of palm nuts.

Eventually, at midday, Elephant looked up, “Well, Squirrel, have you had enough yet?” he asked, surprised to see his small adversary still busy eating. Not only was he still eating, but his pile of palm nuts were disappearing almost as fast as Elephant’s own.

“Not yet”, rambled Squirrel his mouth full “and you?” “Never” replied Elephant scornfully. And he started to eat a little faster. By the time the sun was setting, elephant was so full he could hardly stand. He Alice: Good morning father.

Father: Good morning Alice. How was your night?

Alice: It was fine, thank you. (Hesitantly) Er, father, excuse me, I would like to make a request.

Father: Go on.

Alice: I know you are not very keen on school trips, but I would really like to go camping in Mombasa during the August holiday with the St. John's Ambulance club members.

Father: But Alice, you are aware of my stand on such trips. They create a healthy ground for immoral behavior. Besides, you have a lot of homework to complete. You can't afford to waste all that time.

Alice: Father, I understand where you are coming from, but this trip is very important. We are going to have an Intensive First Aid training. We are also going to be trained on how to deal with the HIV and AIDS pandemic. I promise to complete my homework before I go on the trip and to behave myself appropriately while there.

Father: What about your studies? You are a candidate next year. You must prepare yourself early enough if you want to perform well.

Alice: I agree with you father. I will put in extra hours when I come back from the trip, Father, I promise you.

Father: Two weeks!

Alice: Yes father two weeks.

Father: Well, it is fine; you have my permission but remember to keep your word. Agree?

Alice Agreed, father.

Father: OK then.

Alice: Thank you so much.

Father: Welcome Alice.
